that recent legal decisions have so emasculated the authority of the commission that it is at present nothing more than a mere name.

Senator Cullom, the author of the present law and chairman of the senate committee on interstate commerce, says that when his bill to protect witnesses testifying before the commission comes up before the senate next month he hopes to amend it so that the commission will be clothed with authority to execute its purposes. Senator Cullom also states that the decision of Judge Greham will result unfortunately for the railroads as its sweeping character will necessitate the enactment of more drastic laws upon the subject of interstate commerce.

There is a bill now before the house committee on military affairs introduced by Johnson, of Ohio, which will be of interest to all old soldiers. It provides that all officers and enlisted men of the United States army below the grade of major-general who shall have served in the war for the suppression of the rebellion, and who shall have attained thirty years or more of faithful service, shall upon their own application be retired from active service with one additional grade above the actual one held at date of such retirement; provided, that sergeant majors, all non-commissioned officers, signal corps sergeants, regimental quartermaster sergeants, chief musicians and first sergeants be graded as second lieutenants not mounted, and that application for retirement under the proposed act shall be made within three years.

Secretary Elkins in his official capacity promises to become a conspicuous figure in the Panama canal proceedings where by American interests are so seriously jeopardized. Secretary Elkins' attention was the other day directed to the fact that General John Newton, who is president of the Panama Railroad company, is a major-general on the retired list of the United States army. The Panama Railroad company was organized under the laws of New York and given a charter which guaranteed that the enterprise should always be controlled by American stockholders. The company passed almost entirely into French hands, but General Newton has remained as president, and has regularly drawn both the salaries of a retired United States army officer and of the president of a railroad company, which only awaited the expiration of its contract obligations to immediately attack American interests.

As soon as Secretary Elkins' attention was drawn to this state of affairs he recognized that General Newton was occupying a commercial position inconsistent with the spirit of his military position and mimical to the interests of the American government under whose flag he is still enrolled since officers on the retired list, are considered by the war department as being still in the service of the country. It is stated that Secretary Elkins, in view of General Newton's anomalous position, has addressed him a letter in which, after directing his attention to the inconsistency of his two salaried offices, he has suggested to him by intimation, at least, the propriety of resigning one position or the other. There is considerable indignation here over the action of General Newton, especially since the American stockholders of the Panama railroad have been missed in the dealings and the government has been so grossly treated, and if he does not get out of his place voluntarily it is likely that precipitate action will put him out of the army. Congress is almost sure to take the Panama question in hand and deal with it vigorously from an American standpoint.

Alfred de Rothschild's proposition to the international monetary conference at Brussels has recalled the fact that he and other well known members of the great banking house of de Rothschild have been frequent visitors to Washington. It is thought, moreover, that some of these visits have given the Rothschilds an insight into the course of financial legislation in this country, which has had much to do with the present proposition.

Only two months ago Henry de Rothschild, with his valet Corrier and a small retinue of attendants, was at one of the up-town hotels for several days. He is the Paris member of the Rothschilds house. At the time of his visit Secretary Foster was making final arrangements for the international monetary conference. Last spring another member of the family—and it is thought to have been one who is now prominent in the Brussels conference was in Washington for some days. It happened at a time when the house bill and Mr. de Rothschild showed much interest in the controversy. In an interview he stated that his interest was not so much due to what Mr. Bland might or might not do but it was from curiosity over the excitement which could be aroused in America on a financial question which Europe knew nothing about. Mr. de Rothschild treated the congressional turmoil very lightly from his expressions at the time. It is judged that he has changed his mind considerably as to the importance of concerted action among the great financial powers. Several times prior to last spring various members of the Rothschild family have been here, and although their visits have always been as sight-seers rather than as financiers. At the treasury department to day there was much satisfaction over the news from Brussels. It has been feared that the entire conference would collapse without anything further than the expression of the wishes of the American delegates. The proposition of de Rothschild is at least an assurance that the leading financiers of Europe are treating the conference with seriousness. It is not expected here that any definite results will be secured, as it is pointed out that an agreement would have to be submitted to the various powers, and that many months, and probably years, would intervene before the agreement could secure the sanction of the countries represented, but it is expected that steps will be begun which will finally lead to an international union.

RONEY DIES.

A Very Estimable Young Man Passes Away This Morning.

Mr. O. W. Roney, 20 years of age, died this morning at 4 o'clock at the residence of his uncle, W. Duke, after an illness of twelve days, of typhoid fever. He is the only son of Mr. A. K. Roney, of Haw River, and his father, mother and sister were with him when he breathed his last.

Mr. Roney has been one of the office force in the factory of W. Duke, Sons & Co., branch of the American Tobacco company, for the past four years. He was a member of Trinity Sunday school and was always present unless something prevented.

The remains will be taken to Haw River to-morrow morning on the 7:15 train. There will be no services at Mr. Duke's residence on account of the extreme illness of Mr. B. Lyon, who is down with the same disease.

WHAT TO GIVE.

A Time-honored Custom Which People Generally Will Observe.

Almost every man is asking the question: "What can I buy for a suitable Christmas present?" Some men think the custom of dispensing Christmas presents ought to be frowned down; that it forces them to make expenditures they can ill afford; that the giving of gifts is not a pleasure but is suggested by a sense of duty. The great mass of men, however, remembering the days of their childhood, look to the Christmas season with joyous anticipation. They are anxious to purchase suitable gifts, but they do not know what to buy. Right here is where the advertiser shows his foresight. He advertises his goods, showing the prospective purchaser what to buy and where to buy it. There are many merchants in Durham whose Christmas trade amounts to a considerable part of the year's gross receipts. These are the merchants who advertise in THE GLOBE, which has a circulation larger than the combined lists of all other papers printed in Durham, and which prints the news when news is news. The live ones are in our Christmas edition.

The Handsomest Lady in Durham. AS WE GROW.

The Boom Now on Those Who Are in the Profession.

Now that it is given up by every one that a big boom is about to be inaugurated in Durham and that property is compelled to advance to double and treble its present value, it is the duty of every man, old or young, who expects to ever own a home, to secure it now while it is within his reach.

Dr. J. L. Watkins is building houses on very desirable lots and selling on easy terms to a number of our young business men. If you want a home, and what man or woman does not? See Dr. Watkins and even on a small salary he will make it possible for you to own one.

The Daughter Speaks.

A lady, apparently of great wealth, had been for more than an hour imposing upon the unceasing endeavors of a patient saleswoman to fit with a ready made costume the daughter of the "shopper," a child of about eight years. The hope of adding one more sale to her day's list buoyed the drooping spirits of the saleswoman and made her indignant in her efforts to please, but her hope was vain, for her customer finally said, "Well, I will not decide now, but I will return this afternoon," whereupon our child quickly remarked, "Why, mamma, we won't have time to come back here and the nine other stores where you've promised the same thing today."—New York Recorder.

A Valuable Gold Piece.

In 1874 a goldsmith of the name of Burdett coined a sixteen dollar gold piece, which is now one of the rarest of coins. There is but one specimen of it known, all of which are held at $3,000 each. This rare piece has the well known motto stamped upon it in this raised up form, "Union & Pluribus."—Philadelphia Press.

THE RIGHTS OF PARENTS.

A Drunken Father Not a Proper Guardian for His Children.

A curious question from Canada on the law of parent and child has recently been decided in London by the judicial committee of the privy council, which is the court for the hearing and determination of appeals in colonial cases.

The parties to the litigation were a Mr. and Mrs. Smart of the province of Ontario. Mr. Smart, was addicted to the use of strong drink, and so much so that Mrs. Smart found it impracticable to live with him. She therefore left him, and took with her the children of the marriage, whereupon the husband endeavored to regain their custody by means of habeas corpus proceedings. All the courts before which the case came in the Dominion of Canada decided in favor of the wife. Under the laws of Ontario the courts have express power to dispose of the custody of minors under twelve years of age, with exclusive reference to the welfare of the children themselves, but the question was whether this authority extended to the children over the age of twelve. The Canadian tribunals decided that it did, and that Mr. Smart was an unfit custodian.

The same view has been taken by the judges who constitute the judicial committee of the privy council of Great Britain. They hold that "the modern feeling as to drunkenness renders habitual intemperance an offense important enough to be made the ground for disregarding the patria potestas," or parental power. Under the law as thus laid down, therefore, a father who becomes an habitual drunkard is liable to lose the right to the custody of his children.

This result is in accordance with the tendency of judicial decision in this state and the United States generally.

A case which well illustrates the doctrine of the New York courts in this branch of the law is the matter of Watson, which came before Mr. Justice Daniels, of the supreme court, at a special term in Buffalo ten years ago. The parties were a physician and his wife, who had been married in 1865 and lived together until 1876, when, by the husband's direction, the wife took their two children and went to live with her own relatives in the western part of the state, while he continued to practice medicine in the eastern part, employing a housekeeper to look after his household, having determined to live no longer with his wife. In 1882 he applied to the court to award him the custody of the children upon proofs showing that he was able to support and care for them and that his general moral character was good. One child was a boy fourteen years of age; the other a girl of sixteen. The mother had acquired such a knowledge of medicine herself as to earn an income by her practice as a physician sufficient to provide them with a comfortable maintenance and a good education. The boy was not in robust health and the girl needed a mother's care. Under these circumstances Judge Daniels declined to transfer them to the custody of the father. He had sent them away from his home when they were comparatively helpless, without being justified or excused by any misconduct on the part of his wife, and the court declared that it would be doing wrong to give them back to him.

Every well considered decision on this subject emphasizes the welfare of the child as the test by which to determine to whom its custody should be awarded.

ONE WORD!

I come to you with a small affair that you may need. In England, the Continent and many foreign countries, myself and wares are well known. Many American families on their return from abroad bring my articles with them, for they know them pretty well, but you may not be one of these.

Confidence between man and man is slow of growth, and when found, its rarity makes it valuable. I ask your confidence and make a reference to this Journal to indorse that confidence. I do not think it will be misplaced.

I make the best form of a cure—an absolute one—for biliousness and headache that can be found in this year. The cure is so small in itself, and yet its comfort to you is so great—20 minutes being its limit when relief comes—that it has become the marvel of its time. One and a half grains of medicine, coated with sugar, is my remedy, in the shape of one small pill, known to commerce as DR. HAYDOCK'S NEW LIVER PILL. It is old in the markets of Europe, but is as new to North America. The price is as low as an honest medicine can be sold at, 25 cents. Send a postal card for a sample vial, to try them, before you purchase.

THE KEELEY INSTITUTE

Twelve Years of Established Merit

NOTE OF WARNING!

TO THE PUBLIC:

DWIGHT, Ill., April 30, 1892.

As a matter of justice to ourselves and to the reputation of Dr. Leslie E. Keeley's Double Chloride of Gold remedies for the cure of the liquor, opium, morphine and tobacco diseases and Neurasthenia, we warn the public that these remedies are used by no institution or sanitarium in the United States except those established by our company under the uniform name of "The Keeley Institute."

All others claiming to use our remedies are frauds and impostors.

We have now sixty Keeley Institutes established in various parts of the United States where the Keeley treatment is administered and the Keeley remedies sold. We, however, caution all to examine well and know that they are dealing with genuine representatives, authorized by us, before taking the treatment or purchasing remedies. The fraudulent establishments use the name of "Bi-Chloride of Gold," or similar titles. The newspapers do not discriminate sufficiently to know that they are imitators, and so put down all accidents occurring at such establishments as being brought about by the Keeley treatment. This is a matter of much concern to us, hence this warning.

Respectfully yours,

THE LESLIE E. KEELEY CO.

Curtis J. Judd, Secy and Treas.

The Keeley Institute at Greensboro, N. C., is the only one in the state, and all representations that there is in the state any cure that is identical with, or the same as, the Keeley Double Chloride of Gold Cure are malicious, false, and made for the purpose of deceiving. We learn with indignant regret that such claim is being made, and feeling that if it be hurtful to us it will prove more disastrous to those who are deceived thereby we sound this warning.

THE KEELEY INSTITUTE, Greensboro, N. C.
